

Writing Guidelines

Humaniora

Language, People, Art and Communication Studies

1. Article is written in English, single-spaced, one column, 3500–5000 words length. Author(s) must follow the journal template which can be downloaded at http://research.binus.ac.id/journal/wp-content/uploads/sites/3/2015/04/Template-Jurnal_1-kolom-Eng.dotx
2. Article contains TITLE; Author Name, Author affiliation (department, faculty, university / or institution), complete address of the affiliation and Author's corresponding email; then, ABSTRACT and keywords in 3 to 5 important words. Moreover, the article consists of INTRODUCTION, METHODS, RESULTS AND DISCUSSIONS, CONCLUSIONS, REFERENCES, APPENDICES (if any).
3. Tables and figures in the article are numbered consecutively using Arabic numerals (1, 2, 3, so on) and written with caption and source of the figure and table. The table captions are written above the table, while the figure captions below the figure. For tables, avoid using vertical lines. Figures and tables appear in good resolution and are not print screened and / or screenshot.
4. Citations and References are adapted from APA style. Guidelines to APA style used for in-text citations and references are available at <http://www.apastyle.org>. However, some adjustments are made to suit the need of Humaniora. A quick guide as example is stated as follows. The samples below are taken randomly from various sources and for example purposes only. They are intended neither as ads and promos nor as the Editorial Board's viewpoint or preferences.

5. All citations must be written in References and the References must consist of all sources cited in the article. A minimum of 81% References must be primary sources (journal articles, proceedings, conferences, dissertations, theses, or research reports). The references should be recently published in the last 10 years, except texts used as research data.

It is suggested that authors use a computer application, for instance Mendeley or Zotero, to fit and uniform in-text citations and references. Those computer applications are available online and free downloaded from <https://www.mendeley.com/> or <https://www.zotero.org/> and then can be installed in a computer and Ms Word toolbars. For guides, videos, and tutorials, refer to <http://community.mendeley.com/guides>.

6. Article is based on research findings, case studies, or science development in the field of Language, People, Art, and Communication Studies. Article is written in scientific language style and has never been submitted for consideration or under reviewed or published in any other scientific journals and/or media.
7. Authors may send their articles to the Secretariat of Humaniora, Research and Technology Transfer Office, Bina Nusantara University via email to hsutanto@binus.edu.
8. Article which does not comply to the journal format will be returned to the author(s) for reformatting. Author(s) may revise and resend the article after the article is upgraded in the accepted format.
9. Plagiarism check will be conducted for each article. After that, the article will be double blind peer-reviewed.
10. Author(s) whose article either needs to be revised or is rejected will get a written notification and review forms.
11. Editors reserve the rights to edit article for conforming the journal format without changing its meaning and substance.
12. Author(s) whose article is published in Humaniora will get a printed journal of the current number. Softcopy of the article will be sent via email to the corresponding author.
